2011 Admiral Stan Arthur Awards

JUNE 2012

NMLC Nets Joint Logistics Team of the Year By Julius L. Evans

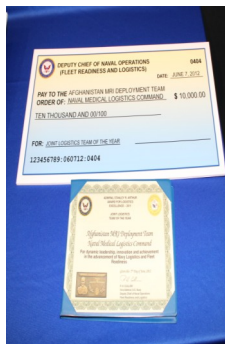

The Navy Honor Guard presented the National Ensign for the opening Stan Arthur ceremony.

Naval Medical Logistics Command won the 2011 Admiral Stan Arthur Joint Logistics Team of the Year award.

In 2010, the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff directed the deployment of Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI) systems to the active combat zone of Afghanistan. Naval Medical Logistics Command took on the considerable task of understanding and overcoming the logistical impediments to successfully deploy highly sensitive medical equipment to the austere environment of Afghanistan.

For successfully achieving the chairman's goal of providing world-class medical technologies in support of warfighters, Naval Medical Logistics Command was awarded the 2011 Admiral Stan Arthur Award for Logistics Excellence in the category of Joint Logistics Team of the Year.

Rear Adm. Colin G. Chinn, Director, Medical Resources Plans and Policy Division (N0931) Office of the Chief of Naval Operations, and the 10th Chief, Navy Medical Corps, chats with Capt. James B. Poindexter III, Commanding Officer, Naval Medical Logistics Command, prior to the beginning of the 2011 Admiral Stan Arthur Awards Ceremony held at the United States Navy Memorial in Washington, D.C., June 7, 2012. NMLC was recognized as the 2011 Joint Logistics Team of the Year.

MEMBERS OF THE NAVY BAND BRASS QUARTET

Bert Hovermale, Director, Acquisition Management is interviewed by a Defense Media Activity reporter. DMA is expected to write an article on the ceremony that will appear on www.Navy.mil.

Early arrivals in anticipation of the 2011 Admiral Stan Arthur Award for Logistics Excellence were Bert Hovermale, Paul David Garrison, Tameka Davis, Katie Sheckels, Derek Bell and Erik Przygocki. Other award recipients not pictured are Anthony Angelo, Frank Boals, Chris Cullen, Margaret Ely, Sheila Gorman, Lt. Cmdr. Daniel Kachenchai, HMCS(FMF) David Ludwig, NMLC's Executive Officer Cmdr. Mary Seymour, and James Watkins.

With precision and poise, the Navy Honor Guard from the Washington Navy Yard snapped to attention, and with crisp, sharp movements, marched to the center stage, presented the colors and then retired the colors as required by standard military protocol.

Government civilians and military members will share the award. Left, Derek Bell shakes Vice Adm. Cullom's hand as he finishes a conversation. The ceremony played host to about 117 family members, friends and onlookers.

AND THE WINNER IS...

At each gate leading to Fort Detrick's three entrances, visitors and those assigned to the post are greeted with the announcement of Naval Medical Logistics Command's selection as winner of the Admiral Stan Arthur Award for Logistics Excellence. The display is continuous for approximately 30 days. Naval Medical Logistics Command was notified of its winning selection earlier this year. The above shows exactly how the announcements appeared.
